BELK SCOUT CAMP ORIENTEERING COURSE

PRESENTED BY:
TROOP 18
NEWELL PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Scouts and Scouters:

This orienteering course is very challenging. You must be able to read a compass and equally as important you must know your walking pace. Use the two markers located exactly 100 ft. apart, to practice and determine your pace. They are behind the flag poles at the end of the Boy Scout field.

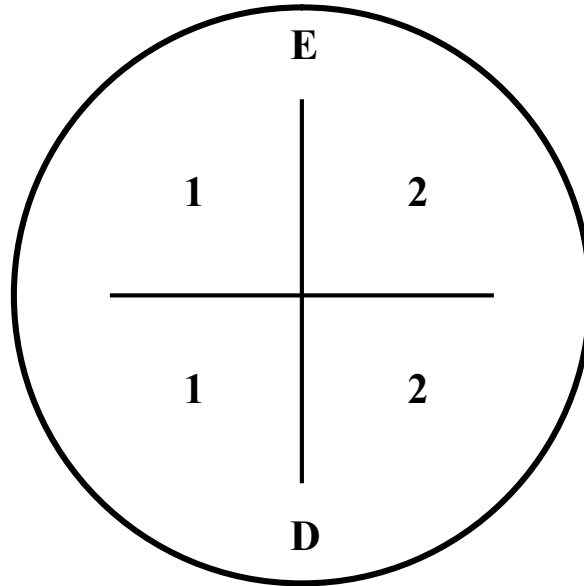

Scout Leader, there are fifteen control points or markers that make up the course. Fourteen of the control points are flush in the ground. Most are not easy to see until you are close or "in the neighborhood". Again you must know your pace and be able to use a compass.

Number 15 is the sanitary sewer on the sewer right-of-way and it is marked with red and white paint.

Each control point has a series of letter and numbers located in one of 4 quadrants.

Example:

No two control points are the same. Your master copy has all of the markers, alpha-numeric scheme. This will allow you to send scouts out in pairs, groups or teams. You might ask one group to write down the number in the lower right corner and top letter.

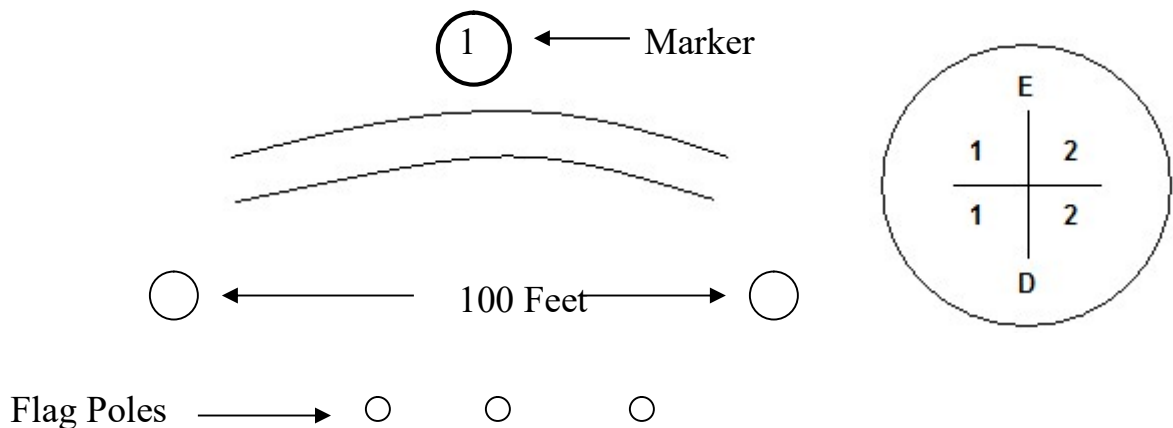

Use your imagination.

Look over the course information before sending your scouts out. Scouts should use basic orienteering skills such as locating and aiming point. This is what we did when we designed the course. Twice you will have to track through some woods. If you are on the correct heading you will notice a relatively clean line of sight through the woods.
